

Earth Day Prayer

by Celia Kelly

April 22, 2007

This prayer was written and shared with the congregation on Sunday by Celia Kelly, one of the youth in our church.

God,
May we always hear you.
Through the slight breeze on a summer day.
Through the sunset in the horizon.
Through the songs the birds sing.
And through the rain after a long drought.
We're sorry for the times we did not listen.
The times that we thought we didn't have the time.
That we felt were too hard.
We know you have always listened to us.
In times of sorrow and grief.
In times of confusion and anger.
And even in times of joy.
Thank you God.
May we always hear you.
Amen.
